Cubs Feted at Dinner, Open Season Tonight

By BILL DIEM

The Ohio-Indiana league baseball clubs break for the barrier in four parks tonight, and if the rousing send-off given the Marion Cubs at the Inter-Club council's third annual baseball banquet at the Hotel Harding last night was any help, the local team of the class D circuit should have little trouble in charging past the Muncie Reds under the lights at Lincoln park.

The initial game tonight will be under way when Mayor Harry Dowler sends in the first ball at 8 o'clock.

The ball club and manager Lewis (Zeke) Bekeza were honored guests at the banquet last night which had such sports notables as Denton T. (Cy) Young, Tristram (Tris) Speaker, Fritz Howell and Turk Reilly as speakers.

Cy Young, baseball's greatest pitcher who won 511 games in a 22-year career as a major league hurler, reminisced about his baseball days when major league clubs had at most two or three pitchers, and they worked every other day. To this day, he said, the only thing he knows about bull pens are that he builds them on his farm near Peoli, O.

He told the Cub baseball team to give all they have in a game and admonished the fans not to fuss about the play they see on the field.

In Hall of Fame

Tris Speaker, like Young, a member of Baseball's Hall of Fame, is generally regarded as the greatest centerfielder of all time. He, too, had a 22-year playing career, and is still active in baseball today as a Cleveland Indian coach. Tris piloted the Tribe to the only world championship Cleveland has ever enjoyed in 1920 as a playing manager. He batted .388 that year.

Tris gave credit to Cy for making him into a great fielder, recalling that when he broke into big league baseball in 1907 with Boston, Young and his battery mate, Lou Crieger, took a fancy to him and showed him how to judge fly balls. Cy would have him shagging fly balls for 30 minutes every day, always placing them one step out of reach until Tris learned to get the jump on him by watching his swing with the fungo bat.

Tris dwelt at some length over the prospects of the Cleveland Indians, giving the Tribe a strong chance to finish third this year. He said the American league ball club is greatly improved over what it was last year, more by improvement in existing players than in the addition of strength by trades last winter.

Tribe on Top

At the present time, of course, the Indians are still undefeated and leading the race with five straight wins, which would put pennant hopes into many an Indian fan, but Tris said the Indians recognize that the St. Louis Browns and the Chicago White Sox, who have accounted for two of Cleveland's wins, were not the strongest clubs in the league, and besides, Cleveland's ace pitcher, Bob Feller, and No. 2 pitcher, Bob Lemon, have accounted for three of the five wins, and were so often used only because the Tribe had two idle days last week.

He said Bill Veeck, who enters the hospital today for additional surgery on his leg, was still seeking a strong pitcher to go with Feller and Lemon and that if one wasn't acquired by trade or development, the Tribe's hopes for a pennant were pretty slim.

Tris and Cy were introduced by Howell, Ohio sports editor of The Associated Press, who lived up to his advance billing as one of the top master of ceremonies in the state. Fritz told a number of amusing stories that kept the 200 in attendance in laughter.

The dinner opened with a blessing by Rev. Hugh Murphy of the St. Mary church.

Williamson Lauded

Robert Solinger, assistant secretary of the Marion Chamber of Commerce, represented the Inter-Club council and thanked Don Williamson, the chairman and committee of the banquet preparations for a splendid job.

He introduced the president of the Marion Baseball club, Municipal Judge W. Dexter Hazen, who also expressed his appreciation to Williamson, and Hazen introduced Fritz Howell.

Howell introduced Zeke Bekeza, Marion Cub manager, who presented the team.

He also introduced Turk Reilly, once a catcher for Marion and now a sporting goods salesman and manager of Cy Young on the knife and fork circuit; Mayor Harry Dowler; Bill Diem, sports editor of The Star; Jim Graner, sportscaster for radio station MWRN; Walter S. Jackson of Lima, judge of the court of appeals; Russel H. Kerr of Upper Sandusky, prosecuting attorney of Wyandot county; Drs. C. J. Altmaier and Floyd Yeager, team physicians, and the principal speakers.

The meeting was closed with a benediction by Rev. Howard L. Olewiler, pastor of First Presbyterian church.

TAFT'S OHIO TALKS COVER LABOR RECORD

By H. H. DAUGHERTY
Associated Press Writer

Dayton, O., April 27 — U. S. Senator Robert A. Taft defended his labor record and the controversial Taft-Hartley act today and criticized the stand of Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota.

Taft started a tour of Ohio's Third congressional district today, where Stassen stumped last week in his fight with the Ohioan for 23 of the state's 53 delegates to the Republican national convention. Both want to be the party's presidential candidate, and Taft is the Ohio Republican organization's favorite son candidate.

In a press conference, Taft declared that Stassen was "appealing to the employers by saying he is for the Taft-Hartley act and appealing for the labor vote by criticisms."

Council of Churches Youth Oppose UMT

Opposition of the youth department of the Ohio Council of Churches to universal military training and the draft, as shown by action taken by the executive committee of the department recently, was made known to Ohio's senators today, a news release from The Associated Press from Columbus today stated. The stand of the department was made public by Richard A. Howard of Marion, who is president of the Ohio Christian Youth council.

The action was taken at a session of the executive committee, governing body of the OCYC, at Columbus April 10. Composing the committee are officers of the youth council department and adult directors of youth work of various participating denominations. Of 14 present when the vote was taken, 10 voted against UMT and draft proposals, with one dissenting. Three members abstained from voting, Mr. Howard said.

SUSPECT ARRESTED IN REUTHER PROBE

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, April 27 — Police today arrested a minor union official said by a tipster to have threatened once to shoot Walter P. Reuther.

The unnamed man was supposed to have remarked at the CIO United Auto Workers convention in Atlantic City last November that "I'd like to take a shot at him."

Two unnamed tipsters told police the man wore a pistol on his belt the time he purportedly made the remark.

No charge was placed against the man, who was held for investigation. Inspector Joseph V. Krug said he claimed an alibi for the time Reuther was shot in his home a week ago today.

FORECAST END OF RAIL PARLEY

Wage Negotiations Likely To Be Broken Off as 30-Day Cool Off Passes.

By The United Press

CHICAGO, April 27—A union spokesman said that three railroad brotherhoods probably will break off negotiations today with the nation's carriers, setting the stage for a national strike.

The brotherhoods involved were those representing 150,000 engineers, firemen and switchmen. A work stoppage by them would halt almost all passenger and freight service through the country.

J. P. Shields, vice president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, indicated that the unions probably will not set a strike date immediately, however.

Representatives of the unions and the railroads were scheduled to meet again this morning but Shields said "I don't think negotiations will continue beyond today."

30 Days Up

A 30-day cooling off period required by the national railway act expired today, leaving the unions free to strike at any date they set.

"We may wait a day or so to set the strike date," Shields said. "It isn't necessary for us to set a strike date immediately and one day more or less won't make much difference now that we have the legal right to strike."

However, D. B. Robertson, president of the Brotherhood of Firemen, said in Cleveland that if no settlement was reached today, a strike date was mandatory as a result of an agreement between general chairmen of the unions.

Shields declined comment on Robertson's statement. He said he did not know "exactly what Robertson might have in mind."

Final Attempt

Shields indicated that today's negotiations were the union's final attempt to settle the dispute without a strike.

The unions have demanded a 30 per cent wage increase with a $3 minimum daily boost. The railroads have offered a 15½ cent hourly increase as accepted previously by two other "operating brotherhoods," the trainmen and conductors, and by 17 non-operating brotherhoods.

EGYPTIANS IN ARMY INVASION OF PALESTINE

Division Crosses Frontier; Legion of Arabs Occupies Town of Jericho.

By The Associated Press

JERUSALEM, April 27—A reliable Arab source said troops of an Egyptian armored division crossed Palestine's southern frontier at dawn today.

The report came on the heels of a Damascus report that a Trans-Jordan Arab legion had occupied the town of Jericho and was moving into the dead valley of Palestine.

This was discounted here since legion security forces are on loan to the British under both the old and new British-Trans-Jordan treaties.

Reports that Haifa is being shelled from Acre across the bay, were unconfirmed.

An official British army spokesman in Jerusalem said one company of the Arab legion "under British army orders" had entered Jericho on specific duties.

"When their duties are finished," he said, "they will be withdrawn."

"Under British Command"

A Palestine government spokesman said any Trans-Jordan troops now in Palestine are under command of the British general officer commanding and their conduct is not in question. We have not heard of any declaration of war and consider any such declaration as extremely unlikely."

A Jewish agency spokesman told newsmen Jews had learned that last night the Trans-Jordan parliament agreed to King Abdullah's demand to send troops into Palestine and ordered a general mobilization.

Armies of the four Arab nations which encircle Palestine are reported ready to invade the holy land before the week ends.

The reports said the forces of Trans-Jordan, Syria, Lebanon and Egypt will launch the thrust in defiance of the British mandate, not scheduled to end until May 15, and of the United Nations security council, which has ordered a cease-fire in Palestine.

British Oppose Arabs

(In London, the foreign office announced Britain will resist any Arab "incursions" into Palestine before the British mandate ends.)

Two Britons were killed in Jerusalem today, as tension increased over the threatened invasion.

Capt. R. B. Leggett, retired British naval officer, who came to Palestine last week to accept a consular appointment when the mandate ends, was shot by Arabs near Barclay's bank in the heart of the city.

A British public works official was shot dead by unidentified assailants this morning near the Jerusalem sports club. A British source said the official, B. O. Denham, had been threatened by Arabs for "fraternizing" with Jews.

A royal artillery officer, near the scene when Leggett was killed, joined in the gun battle with the assailants. He said Leggett had just emerged from the bank with 4,800 pounds (about $19,200) and was placing the

Shakeup in Social Security Handling Ordered by House

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 27—A shakeup in the social security administration and the U.S. employment service was recommended today by the house appropriations committee.

Slashing $20,673,000 off next year's funds for the federal security agency, the committee approved a $969,050,000 money bill to finance operations starting July 1.

The committee also added a provision barring use of the funds to government workers belonging to a union whose officers have not signed the non-Communist oath required by the Taft-Hartley law.

This is the first time the fund-withholding weapon has been used to back up this section of the labor law. In a previous effort to attach an anti-racial discrimination provision to a money bill, the committee was overriden by the house.

The social security administration, which came in for the major fund trimming, is but one of the agencies under the overall direction of the federal security agency. The $969,050,000 recommended by the committee also would provide for operations of such other units as the Public Health service and the Food and Drug administration.

The bill includes these specific health and social welfare appropriations:

1. $1,000,000 for the public health service to train dentists and dental technicians in the new procedure for using sodium fluoride to check tooth decay.

2. $3,250,000 for research grants and scholarships to promote study of mental illnesses.

3. $700,000 for an immediate survey of what the committee called "rather serious" health and sanitation conditions in Alaska.

The bill, written by a subcommittee headed by Rep. Keefe (R-Wis), recommended a "far-reaching overhaul" of the social security administration. It pruned the "administrative superstructure" by:

1. Denying $50,830 asked for 11 jobs in the coordinating and procedure division, saying "there is absolutely no need for this intervening layer."

2. Cutting the request for the agency's publicans and information service from $109,997 to $30,000.

In addition the committee ordered all regional social security offices shifted to the Federal Security agency. It recommended a raise in the FSA director's salary from $12,000 to $15,000 a year.

PAY DEMANDS ARE RENEWED

Requests of City Employes Kept Open at Meeting of Council.

The controversial issue over a pay raise and improved working conditions for approximately 40 service department workers was kept open last night by city council.

By a vote of six to two, one member being absent, council requested City Solicitor John Watters to bring in separate legislation for council vote on each of four requests by the workers represented by Local 310, United Public Workers of America (CIO).

The union's requests involved (1) a pay raise of 15 per cent, (2) paid vacations, (3) sick benefits and (4) advertisement of vacancies in the department.

Approximately 30 members of the union with Herbert Siens, international representative as spokesman attended the meeting.

Action by council was taken in the face of council finance committee recommendation that no pay increases could be granted at this time. The committee, together with Safety-Service Director E. O. Uncapher in a series of conferences with the union has repeatedly maintained the city is in no position to take action on the union requests at this time.

Last meeting of council was marked by a renewed effort by the union to obtain a pay increase which resulted in a further conference between the finance committee, safety-service director and union representatives.

Has No Report

Finance committee chairman D. R. Biggert, Fourth ward, had no report to make to council last night on the meeting held with the union last Thursday. Siens however, told council the meeting ended as did the others, "In a stalemate."

Councilman Herman M. Miller, Fifth ward, moved that the unions requests be presented to council in form of legislation to be acted upon at the next meeting of council. Motion was seconded by James C. Jenkins, Second ward.

Roll call found all five new members of council voting to bring in the union requests for council vote. Harold Robinson, council member-at-large was the sixth member to back the motion. Councilman Biggert, and Councilman Clarence Sanden, Sixth ward voted against the motion. Council member at large C. R. Penniston was absent.

With six members backing union demands, any or all of the four requests could be approved by council over the recommendations of the finance committee.

Dowler Is Silent

Mayor Harry L. Dowler had no comment today upon the action taken by council. At previous council meetings, he had explained the city's financial set-up to the union delegation pointing out that wage increase demands could not be safely met by the city at this time.

Council enacted legislation last night granting permission to the Marion Contracting Co. to install storm water and sanitary sewers on Uhler avenue, site of the company's real estate development project. Installations are to be made at the company's expense and subject to city approval. Legislation specified installation of an eight inch sanitary sewer and a 12 inch storm water sewer.

Accompanying legislation authorized extension of water mains south on Uhler avenue for a distance of 600 feet and installation of a fire hydrant on the water line.

Other installation of water mains authorized the Marion Water Co. included a temporary main 200 feet in length on Forest street, providing water to a

JAP SENTENCED WHO BEAT MARION SAILOR

Prison Guard Gets 8 Years for Atrocities.

An Eighth Army tribunal today sentenced Sgt. Hirokazu Tanaka, former Osaka prison guard, to eight years at hard labor for participating in the B-29 beatings of allied prisoners during World War II, according to an Associated Press dispatch today from Yokohama.

One of the victims of the beatings was Harold E. Thomas of the Lincoln hotel, who was a prisoner of the Japanese for some 40 months. A son of the late Mrs. James Lingo of 317 South Vine street, he was discharged from the U. S. Navy Sept. 21, 1945 and held the rating of boatswain's mate, second class.

Mr. Thomas was taken a prisoner of the Japanese following the fall of Corregidor. He arrived home in October, 1944, starting from Japan on Sept. 13. Mr. Thomas entered the Navy in 1938 while a senior at Harding High school. He is now employed at the Midway restaurant.

The B-29 beatings, according to the dispatch, derived their name from the fact that every time the big bombers appeared over Osaka, Sgt. Tanaka and another sergeant would beat the captives whose numbers turned up 29th at evening roll call. Since there were 13 prison groups, 13 men got beaten every time the B-29s appeared.

SHOOTS SELF AFTER THREAT TO RELATIVES

Police Fire Into House as Victim Barricades Self in Room.

Special to The Star

UPPER SANDUSKY, April 27—As tear gas shells of besieging police crashed through the windows, Arthur Meck, 45, Wyandot county farm laborer last night took his own life with a sawed off shotgun in an upstairs bedroom of the home of his niece and brother-in-law he had threatened to kill a few minutes earlier.

Sheriff B. H. Stansberry said the threeway tear gas shell barrage was fired by police and sheriff's deputies in an effort to gain entrance to the locked house where Meck had barricaded himself and refused to come out.

The account of the suicide following two abortive murder attempts as told by Sheriff Stansberry this morning is as follows:

Miss Mildred Crawford, 30, a domestic and her uncle, Ezra Hablitzel, arrived at their home on Summit street about 5:20 p. m. last night.

Hablitzel started to the basement of the house on an errand when he was halted midway of the basement stairs by Meck, who had been hiding there for some time, having entered the house during the afternoon. The house was empty during the day because Mrs. Hablitzel, sister of Meck was absent on duty as a nurse.

Threatened with Gun

Meck, when discovered by Hablitzel, threatened him with a sawed-off shotgun, and ordered him back up the basement stairs to the kitchen saying he would "get him as soon as he shot Millie."

Miss Crawford, in the kitchen, heard the threat to her life and recognizing Meck's voice fled from the house. Meck, reaching the kitchen from the stairs in time to see her flee, deserted Hablitzel and ran after her. After pursuing her a short distance through the lawn of the home he saw she was beyond range of his weapon and returned to the house.

Hablitzel in the meantime had escaped from the house through another door to the home of Oscar Hannum, a neighbor, where he phoned police.

Locks All Doors

Returning to the house and finding Hablitzel also had escaped, Meck entered the house, locked all the doors and windows and pulled down the window shades.

Marshal Adolph Kirschner, Patrolman John Fritchle, Sheriff B. H. Stansberry, and Deputy Carl Stansberry arriving on the scene only minutes later surrounded the house and called for Meck to surrender.

Receiving no answer they fired tear gas shells through the locked windows. After firing shells into three sides of the house police summoned Fire Chief Wallace Bringman who entered the gas filled house wearing a gas mask.

Upon entering the house, Chief Bringman found evidence that Meck had gone beserk and slashed every piece of upholstered furniture with a knife.

Chief Bringman found Meck dead in an upstairs bedroom of the dwelling. He had shot himself in the head with the sawed-off shotgun.

Meck's body was removed to the Bringman funeral home at 7:30 p. m. last night.

Meck is believed to have brooded over what he regarded as an inequitable distribution of family property seven years ago, the sheriff said.

Evidence found at the scene, the sheriff said, convinced him that Meck was deranged at the time of the attack and suicide.

Sheriff Stansberry said Mrs. Hablitzel, sister of Meck, had called him yesterday seeking information on how to have a person placed under a peace bond, but had mentioned no name as to whom she intended to summon in the action. She was advised by the sheriff to come to his office where proper procedure could be started to secure the bond. Aside from this call early yesterday there was nothing to indicate the pending trouble in the Hablitzel home, the sheriff said.

Knudsen, Immigrant Who Rose To GM Presidency, Stricken

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, April 27—William S. Knudsen, World War II coordinator of America's industrial might, died today following a long illness.

Death from a cerebral hemorrhage came to the 68-year-old former president of General Motors Corp. at 4:48 a. m. (EDT).

The white-haired Danish immigrant was known by fellow industrialists as "the greatest production genius of modern times."

He gave up the presidency of General Motors, the country's largest producer of automobiles, in 1940 to head the mammoth rearmament program initiated by the late President Roosevelt.

Knudsen was commissioned a lieutenant-general, the only civilian ever to move directly to that high military office. He frequently admitted his embarrassment, remarking "I'm not a military man," he said; "my business is to make things."

Although the well-known automobile pioneer had been seriously ill for 16 months, death did not seem imminent until shortly after midnight, when he lost consciousness.

His wife, Mrs. Clara Elizbeth Knudsen, and their four children were called to his bedside. Doctors Charles E. Lemmon and A. C. Ernstene were in attendance.

SMITH DEFENDS U.S. POSITION IN ITALY

Comments by some congressmen on the outcome of the Italian election and the possibility that it might have been influenced by the United States were scored in Washington by Rep. Frederick C. Smith, (R-Marion), according to an Associated Press report today.

Congressman Smith said:

"I am constrained to comment on some of the remarks made by members (of congress) on the outcome of the Italian election. It was made to appear that the intervention of the United States was a material factor in deciding the issue.

"It appears to me that this is a pretty presumptuous construction for a member of congress or any other citizen of the United States to place upon the Italian elections.

"There is nothing to indicate that the vote in Italy was influenced in the slightest degree by what the United States did. To assume anything else would smack too much of egoism on the part of the United States.

"Good manners alone should prompt us to credit the Italian citizens with sufficient good sense, sound judgment and patriotism for the outcome of their election."

Device Is Hot Water Bottle Plus Ice Pack

By International News Service

CLEVELAND, April 27 — A combination ice pack and hot water bottle — to chill a fevered brow or warm an aching muscle —was introduced today at the packaging exposition in Cleveland.

The new gadget is a Vinylite plastic bag filled with a special liquid chemical which retains heat and cold for long periods.

For a cold pack the bag is placed in a refrigerator until the liquid congeals to a semi-solid state. For heating the bag is placed in a pan of hot water for five minutes.

Manufactured by the Hot-R-Cold-Pak, Inc., of New York, the device has been widely tested in medical institutions.

Brewster, Methodist rural leader, will be one of the delegates to the General conference of the Methodist church, which meets every four years and which will convene at Boston, Mass., Wednesday. Prominent in the Ohio delegation also will be Dr. John M. Versteeg, superintendent of the Lima district, who is chairman of the committee on social action and industrial relations of the conference. He is a former public member of the War Labor board.

They will be among 700 members of the conference from all over the world who will attend the sessions which will continue for two or three weeks. 1949 Mercury Goes on Display Here

...erging from the veil of se... in which it has been close... shrouded, the new 1949 Mer... will be on display at Lin... Mercury Sales and Service, ... North Main street, beginning ...day, April 29.

Two of Mercury's four new body types will be on display—the 6-passenger coupe and sports sedan—the other two types in production are a 6-passenger convertible coupe and a station wagon.

Style and comfort have been the aims of the Mercury designing engineers, according to Vice President Benson Ford of the Ford Motor Co., a Lincoln-Mercury director.

Some revolutionary engineering has been incorporated in the design of the new Mercury. The result of these design changes has given Mercury a front seat 8 inches wider while the rear seat has been lengthened 3 inches. Overall height of the car from the ground is 5 feet, 2 inches, length 17 feet 2.3 inches, width 6 feet, 4.96 inches.

A 110-horsepower V-8 type motor supplies the power to the Hotchkiss drive unit which propels the car. The car has coil spring individual suspension of each front wheel and individual logitudinal springing of each rear wheel.

A selective air conditioning system is integrated into the car for summer cooling and winter heating and windshield defrosting, and operates in the same manner as a pressurized cabin in an airplane. Factory installed overdrive is optional on all models and operates in the same manner over 25 m.p.h.

Love's Perilous Path

By ADELE GARRISON

THE answers of all three of my helpers at the farmhouse to my implied bid for their cooperation in the matter of the royal wedding were most gratifying, although Katie's of course, was the most spectacular. While Jim was saying: "Just tell me what you want, Mis' Graham, and it will be done," and Mrs. Ticer, with more warmth, but no more earnestness, was assuring me that she would be on hand as many days and as long each day as I needed her, Katie flung herself across to me, went on her knees beside me, caught both my hands in hers, and looked up at me with eyes in which were both laughter and tears.

"Me, I vork mine finger ends clear down to bone for you, und me, I no care eef my feets drop off," she said. "I feex nicest vedding ever you see."

She caught my eyes and added a hasty postscript:

Me und Meesis Ticer of course, und Jeem' she said. "Shoost you tell us vot ve do, und ve go do eet."

"I won't be the one to tell you, Katie," I said, shrinking from the revelation, yet knowing that it must be made. "I'm simply giving you instructions now about getting the farmhouse ready for the house party. But Queen Olga will take over when she gets out here."

The quick change in Katie's face from glee to dolorous consternation would have been pathetic if it had not been ludicrous.

"Oh, oh-" she wailed. "Me, vot do I know 'bout vorking for qveens mit crowns on dere heads? I know I get een dootch ofer my fool head first ting."

"I don't think she'll wear her crown, Katie," I said with a smile. "But I'll talk to you about her later. Go back to your chair and sit down. I want to talk to Jim. There's no need of keeping him here after I tell him his part of the program."

I was not strictly altruistic in my decision not to waste Jim's time. I wanted to get him out of the room before I went any further into the delicate question of Queen Olga's taking over the domestic reins. I knew, of course, that Katie would be thrilled to the depths of her soul at the prospect of helping a "qveen," but I also knew the dangers of tearful explosion, and wanted Jim safely out of the way before I should talk to his temperamental wife.

"Here is what I want of you and the two Ticer men. They will have time to help?" I turned to Mrs. Ticer.

"Anything and everything you want done," she said comfortably. "This is their dull season. They're cutting wood, but they can stop anytime."

"That just fits in," I said with enthusiasm. "You see, what I want most of all is a big supply of evergreen and laurel branches about two to three feet long, and if they are cutting wood, it will not be hard for them to cut whole trees of the kinds I want, and haul them up to your barn or ours. Then your two men and Jim can saw them up at your leisure, with no danger of curious eyes looking on. Jim also will cut the trees, of course.

"You see," I went on, "I do not wish the florist who will come here at night to bring great loads of greene. He will have flowers, and the kind of greenery we cannot get on the place. But the greater part of the greens will have to be supplied by you men.

"Be very careful," I cautioned, "that no one outside sees you bring the laurel bushes and evergreen trees into the barn.

"We can put other kinds of trees on top, with a rack, so the greens won't be crushed," Jim said.

That's a splendid idea, Jim," I told him. "I know I can trust everything to you. Now, that's all about your work. Jim, except, of course that I shall want the farm drivers and the whole place in the splendid orderly shape you always have it. Tomorrow night, the florist will come over here, look over the rooms, and estimate how much greenery he will need. He will tell Mr. 'K.' who will pass the word along to you. Get some extra, for emergency use.

"That will be all, Jim," I said, "except that of course all three of you men will help Katie and Mrs. Ticer, as usual with any heavy moving. And, thank you for everything."

IF STOMACH BALKS DUE TO GAS AND BLOAT

Help Get Food Digested to Relieve Yourself of This Nervous Distress

Do you feel all puffed-up and miserable after every meal, taste sour, bitter food? If so, here is how you may get blessed relief in helping your stomach do the job—it should be doing—in the digestion of its food.

Everytime food enters the stomach a vital gastric juice must flow normally to break-up certain food particles; else the food may ferment, sour food, acid indigestion and gas frequently cause a morbid, touchy, fretful, peevish, nervous condition, loss of appetite, underweight, restless sleep, weakness.

To get real relief you must increase the flow of this vital gastric juice. Medical authorities in independent laboratory tests on human stomachs, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in increasing this flow when it is too little or scanty due to a non-organic stomach disturbance. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps build-up non-organic, weak, watery blood in nutritional anemia—so with a good flow of this gastric digestive juice plus rich red-blood you should eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better.

Avoid punishing yourself with overdoses of soda and other alkalizers to counteract gas and bloating when what you so dearly need is SSS Tonic to help you digest food for body strength and repair. In Plain Words

By James Marlow

(This is the first of two stories about the margarine fight in congress.)

WASHINGTON

THE battle of the fats—butter and margarine—is coming to a head.

Butter is made of animal fats—cream from cows.

Margarine is made of vegetable fats—oil from soy beans, cottonseed, peanuts.

For years the dairy farmers and the butter-makers have had an advantage over the margarine-makers and the growers of vegetable fats.

How? By blocking any attempt in congress to knock off the special federal taxes and fees for making or selling margarine.

James Marlow

Above all they've fought against letting margarine be sold in yellow color—like butter—without some special tax or label.

Some of the details in this fight will be given tomorrow, but here is a little congress background.

About 18 bills were introduced in the house this year to wipe out the margarine fees or taxes.

In March the house agriculture committee for days held hearings on these bills, listening to a stream of witnesses.

Most of the witnesses were on the side of margarine. They included spokesmen for retail grocers, educators, hospitals, a veterans group, labor organizations, college women and consumers.

But when the hearings were all over, the members of the committee voted—16 to 10—to sit on the bill. Which meant the full house would not get a chance to vote on that.

THEN SOME MARGARINE-minded congressmen got up a petition in the house to drag the bills away from the committee.

To make such a petition work, they needed the signatures of 218 congressmen, or just more than one-half of the 429 members. Finally they got the 218. That was the signal for the full house to act.

So yesterday the full house voted—235 to 121—to force at least one of the bills out of the committee to the floor where the whole house could debate and vote on it.

This bill would wipe out all federal taxes and fees on margarine.

After a couple of days of argument the house will vote. This is expected tomorrow. The house is almost sure to pass it, although some changes may be made in the bill.

ALL THIS WILL mean nothing at all unless the senate later on also votes for such a bill and President Truman signs it into law.

At least one representative of Mr. Truman has told congress he's for such a bill. But—

It's not certain the senate will go along with the house or even consider the bill this year. If it doesn't that ends it. And the taxes and fees will stay on margarine unchanged.

But even if both houses act and such a bill becomes law, margarine will still be at a disadvantage in many places.

Many states have special taxes of their own on margarine—and a new federal law would not change them—and 22 states won't let colored margarine be sold at all.

If Appendicitis Is Suspected

Despite the signal advances made in the treatment of appendicitis, this disease still kills many every year, a needless loss of life because, when the doctor is given an opportunity to see a patient with appendicitis early, the chances for complete recovery are good.

For example, in more than 1400 operations for acute, simple appendicitis, only two patients succumbed. On the other hand, the death rate for ruptured appendix today is one out of 14, and 20 years ago it was higher still—one out of five.

Now the chief factor in bringing about ruptured appendix is delay in seeking treatment, and the above figures show how costly such delay can be.

Even so, fewer people die today from ruptured appendix than 20 years ago but this saving of lives is not due to any lessening of the tendency to put off going to the doctor, but rather to four great improvements in treatment. These are the giving of fluids and salt solutions into the patient's veins, the lessening of the pressure within the stomach and the intestines by the use of some special suction apparatus, the recognition and proper treatment of complications and the use of penicillin and the sulfonamide drugs to combat infections.

There is still another measure which may be life-saving. This is the use of substances, such as dicoumarol which slows down the clotting of the blood. In patients who are forced to stay in bed because of ruptured appendix, a blood clot may develop in one of the veins of the legs. This may become loose and be carried along by the blood stream to a lung, resulting in what is known as pulmonary embolism. Most often, the patients who develop a pulmonary embolism are over fifty years of age. Hence, in such cases, the action of dicoumarol is especially valuable in preventing clot formation. Some surgeons may choose to tie a vein in the leg, to prevent a clot already formed from reaching the lung.

While all of these things have resulted in a lessened death rate from appendicitis there is one aspect in which no improvement has occurred, according to many studies. As I said earlier, this is the delay on the part of the public in going to the doctor. In other words the number of cases of ruptured appendix continues about the same, although there has been great improvement in caring for patients with this condition.

The symptoms of appendicitis consist of such things as pain in the right lower part of the abdomen sometimes with sickness to the stomach and vomiting, slight fever, and an increase in the number of white cells in the blood. Tenderness over the appendix and some stiffness or rigidity of the muscles are also present.

When several of these symptoms occur, there is need to call the doctor at once. Failure to do so may carry with it the heavy penalty of death.

Questions and Answers

H. M.: What causes a lack of acid in the stomach?

A. The exact cause for this condition cannot be determined in many instances. It may accompany severe anemia, a lack of coloring matter in the blood. Cancer of the stomach may also be responsible for this condition.

The most important part of the treatment is to determine if this lack of acid is due to some recognizable condition, and to correct it if possible. Next, proper diet and the taking of a weak acid solution, prescribed by the physician, are of help.

Well Qualified To Speak

MARTHA TAFT, naturally her husband's No. 1 admirer, has made a good case for Bob Taft for president.

The energetic wife of Ohio's senior senator is growing in stature as a campaign orator. Like Sen. Taft, she does not hesitate to tell her audiences where he stands. With the frankness that has characterized the senator's 10 years in congress, she makes these points:

On labor: The Taft-Hartley act is an answer to the voters' demand for legislation fair to labor and management alike. It was co-sponsored by Sen. Taft after he had prevented, single-handedly, passage of President Truman's radical 1946 bill to draft strikers into the Army.

On foreign policy: He supported the Marshall plan because he hopes it will halt the spread of communism in Europe. He voted to reduce ERP funds below the President's recommendation because he believes the amount appropriated will be sufficient and a larger sum might harm the American economy.

On "isolationism": he wants "peace with honor" and hopes the United Nations can be strengthened into an instrument for peace.

On taxes: He believes tax reduction was essential to alleviating "a financial hardship on the working people of America" and the only way to reduce government spending.

Sen. Taft's leadership of the Republican party in the senate has carved out the major planks in the platform the party will place before the voters in next fall's presidential election. To carry it out as president, the Republicans could nominate no one more capable than Bob Taft.

Discontent in Scotland

THE history of the English-Scottish relationship is turbulent, marked by bitter border war and intrigues with the French. The union of the crowns in 1603 was followed by the union of the parliaments a century later, but Scottish resentment against rule from London has never fully subsided. In this time of Britain's travail, it is growing stronger.

Writing in the London News Chronicle, Thomas Johnston, former secretary of state for Scotland, says, "There is great ferment in the realm of Scotland. All parties and groupings are in revolt against the frustrations and irritations of government by a long-distance bureaucracy." Mr. Johnston says the Scotch are weary of looking to London for every decision—and in regimented Britain these days the decisions to be made are many.

While the Scotch express little desire for a complete break, such as Eire achieved, Mr. Johnston says there is strong sentiment for a Scottish parliament similar to North Ireland's. Above all, the Scotch are eager to control their own industry and commerce, believing that once they win economic control, political control will follow.

Security and Civil Liberty

PEACE without appeasement and prosperity without high prices—they comprise a better campaign platform than free beer and no taxes. They are what Henry Wallace promises quite convincingly as long as the promises aren't subject to analysis.

In Mr. Wallace's new book, "Toward World Peace," many knotty problems are solved without even working up a mild sweat. Stalin can be quieted, he says, by assuring him that we don't mean him harm and making a few concessions, as distinct from appeasement.

Mr. Wallace admits that sometimes the Russians aren't too nice. He believes their labor camps are exaggerated (he saw none on his trip through Siberia) and he concedes Russian civil liberties may not be all they should be. But he says the Russian leaders will grant civil liberties when they attain a feeling of security.

Mr. Wallace doesn't cite any instances in which civil liberties have been "granted." They have always been won. As for security, the Russians now have geographical security unequaled in their history. If grants of civil liberty flow from security, it's time for them to start flowing.

The First of Many

SHEEP-RAISERS are the first important American producers to meet postwar competition from abroad. Australia has boosted wool production to prewar proportions and is eager to market its wool here for needed dollars. The American Wool Growers association is so perturbed at the outlook that it has asked congress to adopt a program encouraging sheep-raising.

The industry asks adequate tariff protection, a liberalized price-support formula and designation of wool as a basic commodity. Wool growers have been profoundly disturbed by the state department's pleas for lowered tariffs as a trade stimulant, especially since theirs is the first major commodity to be affected.

The wool growers are only the first of many to take similar troubles to congress. The problem is one that will arise in more and more industries as recovering European countries begin clamoring for access to a market that pays off in good hard currency.

Scanning the Record

By George E. Sokolsky

Right Again Triumphs in Europe.

THE river Elbe is the dividing line between east and west in Europe, between the Teuton and the Slav, between what Toynbee calls the western Christian and the eastern orthodox civilizations.

Rising in Bohemia, it passes through some of the most important areas of Czechoslovakia and Germany. Into it flows the Moldau, the Weisswasser, the Eger. It passes through the beautiful "Saxon Switzerland," where Frederick the Great fought one of his most important battles. It touches on Dresden, Wittenberg, Magdeburg, and Hamburg and finally flows into the North Sea off Cuxhaven.

SOKOLSKY

It was at Hamburg, between the Elbe and the Alstar, that Charlemagne built a fortress in 808 to keep out the Slav and Norseman. The church he erected three years later became the heart of one of the great centers for Christian missionary activity ont only among the Slavs but also in Jutland, the Danish Isles and Sweden and Norway.

Hamburg became under the Holsteins one of the most important commercial cities in northern Europe and a thriving center of Hanseatic activity. It has ever been a dividing line between European and Slav, between Europe and Eurasia. Bohemia itself is the dividing kingdom between east and west, and the Moldau, where it flows into the Elbe, on the Saxon border, is in the western part of that country.

Again the Barrier

And so, in 1948, the Elbe marks the westernmost movement of the Russian thrust into Europe, the farthest penetration without war. Here they have encountered the hard core of European civilization which is Christianity, in its Catholic and Protestant expressions. Here they encountered not politics and economics but religion—a power that resists evil most when evil seems to be most triumphant.

The Italian election is a case in point. Whereas the Communists may shout, "Fraud!" "American dollars," the fact remains that the Italians responded to the direct, religious challenge of the Pope. It became an election for God or the devil. At no time was the question at stake in doubt; priests were campaigning for the survival of their faith. Against that power, in hard times, Italy responded valiantly for God. This election is one of the most decisive in European history.

Significance Recognized

And curiously, the Russians have accepted its results as decisive. All the talk of strikes and uprisings was dissipated once the results were in, for the Russians, guided by historical materialism, recognized their defeat as not being accidental but as a repetition of the results of every effort that the eastern orthodox civilization has made to overwhelm the western Christian civilization. The East has often moved westward but it has always encountered this hard core and has always lost the battle and receded to its own steppes. Europe remains Europe—and Europe is not merely a geographical expression; it is a civilization.

The Ottoman Turks encountered the same experience when they moved into Europe. They were able to conquer in the Balkans but when they reached the gates of Vienna, they came up against the European core of religious faith which stood like an invisible wall against them. It stemmed the tide and although the Osmanli continued for centuries afterwards, thriving on slavery, their creative force had spent itself. The Arabs, earlier, encountered the same core at the battle of Tours (732) when Charles Martel, representing western Christianity, defeated Abdar-Rahman.

What Might Have Been

Gibbon speculates on what might have happened had the Arab won the battle of Tours: "A victorious line of march had been prolonged above a thousand miles from the rock of Gibraltar to the banks of the Loire: the repetition of an equal space would have carried the Saracens to the confines of Poland and the highlands of Scotland; the Rhine is not more impassable than the Nile or Euphrates, and the Arabian fleet might have sailed without a naval combat into the mouth of the Thames. Perhaps the interpretation of the Koran would now be taught in the schools of Oxford; and her pulpits might demonstrate to a circumcised people the sanctity and truth of the revelation of Mahomet."

But Tours was not won by the Arab as Vienna was not conquered by the Turk and as the Italian election was not won by the Russian. Europe remains western.

How Big Can a Man Be?

John L. Lewis Outlasted Six Administrations.

THERE are a good many people saying—as they have said after other demonstrations of his personal influence—that John L. Lewis is the most powerful man in the United States.

His encounters with Justice T. Alan Goldsborough and the heavy fines assessed against him and the United Mine Workers have had the effect of adding to his stature as a man of power; they are official evidence of the government's estimate of his influence.

The record shows that Mr. Lewis has been a gadfly of the highest executive, legislative and judicial authority of the United States since 1919. As acting president of the UMW, he ordered a strike in defiance of wartime law in that year. President Wilson obtained an injunction ordering him to end the strike. It took a White House conference to get the coal mines back in operation.

Twice during the Harding administration (Mr. Lewis became president of UMW in 1920) the White House used its prestige to cope with problems precipitated by the organized miners and coal operators. President Harding's mediation efforts failed; the miners went back to their jobs only when they had obtained what Mr. Lewis wanted.

Three strikes during the Coolidge administration came disastrously close to wrecking the United Mine Workers. President Coolidge declined to use his authority, choosing to let the union and the operators fight it out. By 1932, with President Hoover in the White House, membership in the union had dwindled to an estimated 125,000. Despite efforts by Mr. Hoover to help Mr. Lewis maintain a high wage scale in the face of widespread pay cuts, mining became an occupation of desperation.

Under President Roosevelt, the United Mine Workers was rebuilt to a strength of more than half a million. But as pay scales and privileges grew, so did altercations with the government. Mr. Lewis became so angry at Mr. Roosevelt that he tried to lead his miners out of the New Deal, but without success.

Under President Truman, friction has grown even worse. Mr. Lewis twice has been faced with contempt charges, and only an optimist can believe that a new contract will be drawn before the old contract expires on June 30 without additional trouble. The Coolidge formula of letting Mr. Lewis hang himself in his own rope is no good in 1948. Coal production is too vital. Besides, the Taft-Hartley Act makes it virtually impossible for the White House to hold itself aloof from a strike affecting the national welfare.

It may be true that Mr. Lewis is the most powerful man in the United States. It is undeniably true that no individual in the United States has had more personal influence over its economic and political affairs during the last 30 years.

It's Easy To Get Hurt

IF YOU don't do it right, you're likely to get hurt opening a can of beans or walking to the front door to answer the bell.

In fact, a lot of people get hurt that way every year. The National Bureau of Standards, which measures everything from garter belts to the atoms in atom bombs, has released a report on accidents called "Safety for the Household."

When you first read it, some of the advice seems a little silly. Like telling grownup people not to stick their fingers into the turning blades of a lawn mower. But some folks do just that every year and lose fingers that way.

One chapter of the 200-page booklet is devoted to suggestions for building a home. For instance, never put a one-knob door on a closet. How would you like to be caught inside while searching for the cleanest of the soiled shirts on a day when the laundry man didn't come?

Plumbing manufacturers are still arguing about why the bathtub is slanted in the back. At any rate, the tub is a hazard.

And if you are afraid of it, the safest thing to do—quoting the bureau— is to give yourself a sponge bath, standing on the tiled floor. The mess be damned!

When you think that 10,000 people die of accidents each year and 9,500,000 get stubbed toes and broken necks—well, it's something to consider.

Take icicles. In cold weather, a man ought to look up when he walks by a building. Many a man has been stabbed in the back by a falling icicle.

And fires. The leaflet says that every member of the household ought to learn how to use the telephone to call in fire alarms.

The tea plant is called Thea Sinensis.

Maybe They Were From Missouri

Congress has voted $6,000 to an Arkansas farmer whose mules ran away when frightened by low-flying Army planes.

Inflation, thy spell is everywhere . . . . including Capitol Hill.

I can't imagine mules being so valuable. He must have bought them at a used car dealer's.

Six thousand dollars is a lot of money, even when it's the taxpayers. It seems to me the government should have been able to get a better price on those mules, what with all the horse-traders we've got in congress.

Trans-Jordan Is the Key

By Walter Lippmann

THE course of events in Palestine is making it increasingly probable that the key to a settlement is in the kingdom of Trans-Jordan. This has long been the view of many qualified and disinterested students of the problem, and what has been happening and what is likely to happen tend to confirm it.

The kingdom of Trans-Jordan was a part of Palestine under the original mandate granted to Great Britain after Gen. Allenby conquered it from the Turks. In 1923, Trans-Jordan was separated from what is known as Palestine, by a British proclamation, and after this, the first partition of Palestine, Trans-Jordan became in effect a crown colony and after that a nominally independent kingdom, bound by a treaty which makes it a British protectorate.

LIPPMANN

As the British troops are being withdrawn from the territory west of the Jordan, and as the mandatory government is being disestablished, there have emerged in the region as a whole two principal centers of organized military and political power. The one is in the Jewish agency and the Haganah army; the other is King Abdullah and the Trans-Jordan army.

If the present guerilla fighting were to become an organized war, the war would be fought between the Haganah and Abdullah's army. And if this war is to be avoided and a political settlement reached, it is now reasonably certain that it can be achieved only if Britain and America jointly are able to negotiate an arrangement between the two principal parties actually on the ground.

For unless Abdullah's army crosses the Jordan and invades Palestine in force, there is no present likelihood that the Jews will be forced out of the main territory assigned to them by the recommendation of the General Assembly of the United Nations. Moreover, if Abdullah's army remains in Trans-Jordan, there is no other Arab army of any importance which could wage war in Palestine.

If such an army existed, it would have to cross Trans-Jordan, and indeed to use Trans-Jordan as its base of operations, in order to conduct an organized military campaign.

For these reasons, the key to the prevention of a serious war in Palestine is to find out what King Abdullah will do when the British mandate ends.

British Position

This should not be inordinately difficult. For on the one hand, Trans-Jordan is allied with Great Britain and, on the other hand, Great Britain, after the termination of the mandate can be counted upon, one must assume, to fulfill its obligations under the charter of the United Nations. It is bound to use its whole power and influence to restrain King Abdullah from crossing the frontier and committing aggression, and to oppose him if he does. Since he is entirely dependent upon Britain for money, since his army has been trained, equipped, and officered by Britain, diplomatic advice should be sufficient.

Until this diplomatic action has been carried out and diplomatic measures of this sort exhausted, the idea of sending American or any other troops into Palestine—except possibly to support a special agreed arrangement for Jerusalem—should not even be contemplated.

It is unthinkable that either in Washington or in London there should be any hesitation or doubt on the necessity and the justice of these diplomatic measures. For otherwise, our whole moral and legal position in Greece and the Balkans will collapse. Trans-Jordan is to the guerrilla fighting in Palestine what Yugoslavia is to the guerrilla fighting in Greece.

The two problems are identical except in one crucial respect. Great Britain is not Russia, and it will, therefore, restrain Trans-Jordan unequivocally, and it will collaborate without vetoes or abstentions or boycotts in measures to prevent direct or indirect aggression, and in the search for constructive proposals for a negotiated settlement.

1920 Foundation

It seems not unlikely that as the problem is explored we shall find that the results of the first partition of Palestine in the 1920s are the foundation on which the consequences of the second partition in 1947 can best be dealt with. It may be that in the end of the solution will be to reunite the whole of Palestine on both sides of the Jordan in a loose consideration of two or three autonomous but not wholly sovereign states, perhaps with Abdullah as king of a greater Palestine.

Such a solution is not inconceivable if Britain and America jointly decide to promote it—Britain using its influence with Adbullah and America its influence with the Jewish agency. A wise and adroit diplomacy working on these lines would encourage and induce the Haganah to exert its authority over the terrorists of the Irgun and the Stern gang and would encourage and induce King Adbullah to exert his authority over the Arab terrorists under the grand mufti.

Letters for Special Delive

MR. JOHN RINGLING NORTH,
The Ringling Brothers Circus,

DEAR JOHN:

You have never had a bigger circu than I have been and if there is one hate to find fault with in any way big show, but a ticket scandal at the New York this season moves me to sug you have no net under you in your co that you cannot do anything about it. If your star acrobat can stand upside down on one finger, you should be able to stand rightside up on the ten grasping fingers of ticket gougers anywhere in the U.S.

It may not be that way on the road, but Madison Square Garden is surrounded by ticket offices advertising choice seats, whereas your box office answer is "All out!" I never saw so many ticket speculators within one block. New York's Commissioner of Licenses has taken and got the profiteers in children's h to return 18,000 cheaper tickets, but okay for the brokers to keep the $4. seats which is funnier than anything circus on account of any good seat fro a kid can see all that goes on costs th

It must make you wince like anybod see that beautiful and tender circus "Twas the Night Before Christmas" terrific appeals to kiddies and then tak at the ticket speculators shoving the against the wall to get the last penny them. These words keep ringing thro head:

'Twas the night before Christmas insi
big show
But outside the boys shook the kids for dough.

I never saw a circus feature as tende as this year's Visit From Saint Nicholas It is sheer genius and it fills the hea sentiment. And it is a shame to have it by thoughts like this:

The children were nestled with po
the red"
While visions of sugar plums danc
each head.
When outside the place there arose
clatter
I sprang from my seat to see what w matter.
Away to the window I flew like a fla
Tore open the shutters and threw up t
And what to my wondering eyes did a but two dozen new signs reading
tickets here."
And a pack of slick brokers so livel
quick
I knew that they never had heard of Nick.
They whistled and shouted from doo galore
From office and alley and shop and store:
Now Dasher, now Dancer, now Prance
Vixen
On Gouger, on Sockem, on Cheater
Blitzen!
To the top of the porch, to the top
wall,
If you want a good seat we're the boys
'em all!

Now, John, you say you are as hurt body else by the sight. You say the gyp their seats through thousands of stoo go to the windows or write in early, an no reason to doubt you. No circus m could put on that lovely Night Before C for the kiddies could fail to be pained iteering in children's desires. But it sti to me that some way can be found to ticket chislers and not the children be eight ball.

A circus is noted for accomplishing feats. You are a member of a circus fam has specialized in doing and featuring possible. Surely you can't be stymied by paratively minor task of seeing that th patrons, especially the kids get compl tection from the ticket racket. If it se difficult a trick, talk it over with tha who walks straight up a rope with thos bicyclists. If you just can't find a way the ticket chiselers, how about turning th lem over to one of those men who go cage with the lions and tigers? Or a fussy about taming pigs?

Anyhow, John, I wish you would d thing as circus tickets are too high anyt the circus is one place where the ticket does not belong.

Yours,
ELMER.

Frazier Reams of Toledo Gives Talk on Government.

Frazier Reams, of Toledo, candidate for Ohio attorney general at the Democratic primary May 4 was speaker last night at a meeting of the Marion county Democratic Club.

More than 75 party members heard the former director of public welfare speak on "Fundamentals of Good Government" in which he rapped the present administration of the office of attorney general, James F. Lauer, county Democratic committee chairman introduced the speaker and party candidates for Marion county offices.

Reams took Attorney General Hugh S. Jenkins to task over the administration of the Ohio veterans bonus. He charged Jenkins with abdicating his position as attorney for the bonus paying organization, permitting Ed Schorr, former GOP state chairman to be appointed special counsel at $625 per month for duties that should be performed by the office of the attorney general

"Another instance showing that the attorney general is more interested in taking care of Republican wheel horses than the people of the state, was the appointment of Senator Bricker's law firm to approve the 200 million dollar bond issue at a fee of $40,000," he said.

Local Democratic candidates introduced to party members included Otis McCloskey, for state representative, commissioner candidates Lester Allen, Harry Boyd and Orla Barks, Thomas C. PRICE SYSTEM HELD ILLEGAL Court Ruling on Cement Fixing May Have Effect on Other Industries.

Special to The Star

WASHINGTON, April 27—In a decision that may have an important effect in other industries including steel, the Supreme Court on Monday outlawed the uniform pricing system of the cement industry.

By a vote of 6 to 1, the court held that the "multiple-basing point" system used by nearly all U. S. Cement companies for fixing prices is an unfair trade practice and suppresses competition

The supreme court's opinion, written by Justice Hugh L. Black, directed the lower courts to enforce a Federal Trade commission order which instructed the companies to stop using the pricing system The commission has been trying to accomplish just that for 12 years.

The trade commission case against the steel companies complains of a pricing system similar to the one used by the cement industry. Monday's decision is the first time that the supreme court ever ruled such a pricing system illegal under the anti-trust laws.

Refuses To Rule

In another action the court refused to rule on the constitutionality of legislation authorizing the secretary of agriculture to allocate grain quotas for beverage purposes It held that the case is now moot.

The court also refused to review an anti-trust suit charging the Chicago board of trade with engaging in a conspiracy to protect "small" dealers in grain futures.

The suit was brought by Cargill Inc., Chicago dealers, who claimed they had lost $2,831,223 through regulations issued by the board during prevailing prices

The suit was dismissed by two lower federal courts on the ground that the board was acting lawfully in fixing grain prices.

In other actions Monday, the court,

Announced that its routine argument sessions will end next Friday, unless special circumstances require that it hear one or two extra cases. (One such case might be the appeal of John L. Lewis and the United Mine Workers from fines of $1,420,000 for contempt of court in the coal strike.)

Decided that it will announce opinions in a long list of pending cases in sessions on Monday, May 3, and Monday, May 10 Further opinion-reading sessions will be held on subsequent Mondays until the court disposes of all pending cases

Hoekstra-McManes Wedding in Galion

Special to The Star

Charming and quaint in a white taffeta gown, eyelet embroidered around the sweetheart neckline and at the bottom of the long tight sleeves which fell in points over the hands, Miss Joanne Lucille Hoekstra became the bride of J. Robert McManes, Saturday.

The top of the bodice of the gown was pointed in front, and the bouffant skirt, worn over a crinoline petticoat, fell into a slight train. Venetian lace bordered the finger-tip length illusion bridal veil which was caught to a tiarra of orange blossoms. White streamers fell from the bride's arm bouquet of white flowers centered with a white orchid. She wore the bridegroom's gift of pearls, and she carried a lace handkerchief which was made and carried by her maternal grandmother, the late Mrs. William A. Forster.

The ceremony, witnessed only by the parents, and read by the Rev. Father F. X Hermuller at 3 p. m. in the rectory of St. Joseph's church, was followed by a reception at the home of the bride's parents, Mr and Mrs. Matthew L. Hoekstra.

The bridal couple and their parents received the 125 guests in front of the living room fireplace on either side of which were placed beauty baskets of white gladioli.

With Miss Marcia Arter of Columbus, cousin of the bride, presiding, the dining room was set for refreshments at the beautifully decorated table. A table similarly decorated was placed in the sunroom and held the bride's cake. Conferences Held To Prevent Atomic Plant Work Stoppages

(First of a Series of 3 Articles)

By MAX HALL
Associated Press Labor Reporter

WASHINGTON, April 27—Without hubbub or headlines, groups of men in Washington are struggling with the baffling problem of labor relations in atomic energy plants.

Fifty thousand persons work in and around these plants. They work for private companies, though the plants are owned by the government.

The companies and the workers haven't proved they can settle their disputes without work stoppages. This is the heart of the problem.

The U. S. atomic energy commission is urgently searching for a solution with the help of AFL, CIO, and management leaders.

Meetings are being held almost every day.

David Lilienthal, the commission's chairman, has told congress that work stoppages must be avoided, either by voluntary agreement or "force of law."

Congressmen Waiting

The joint congressional committee on atomic energy is standing by to see whether there will be voluntary agreement on an overall plan. The congressmen are ready to recommend a new law if necessary, but don't know whether it's necessary, or what kind of law would be effective.

The Lilienthal commission wants an overall Labor policy—agreed to by the unions and the employers—that would do three things at the same time:

(1) Assure continuous operations.

(2) Draw the best kind of workers and managers into the atomic industry and keep their morale high.

(3) Assure that not only the employes, but also their union officials outside the plants, will be loyal to the U. S.

This loyalty angle may be a big headache of the future.

The great problem of the moment is "continuity of operations." If possible the government would like to achieve this without interfering with the rights of labor and the efficiency of management. That explains the emphasis being put on voluntary agreement rather than compulsion.

Leaders of the AFL, the CIO and the government are agreed that strikes in atomic plants are "unthinkable."

Yet strikes are possible under the present system. And twice the country has moved near an atomic strike at Oak Ridge, Tenn.:

(1) A CIO crisis occurred last December.

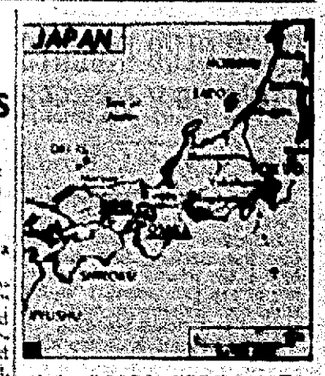
(2) An AFL crises occurred in March.

It took a federal court order to block an AFL strike March 19.

The Taft-Hartley act "outlaws" strikes by government employes. But atomic plant workers aren't government employes. They work for Carbide & Carbon Chemicals Corporation, General Electric, the University of Chicago, and other employers that have atomic contracts with the U. S.

The 50,200 employes are divided this way: 20,400 are at Oak Ridge; 17,900 are at Hanford, Wash.; the other 11,900 are at Chicago, Los Alamos, N. M., Schenectady, N. Y., and other places.

Some of the employes are scientists and supervisors, who don't belong to the unions in the atomic plants. But unions are assuming more and more importance.



U. S. TROOPS SUBDUE RIOTS. Armed U. S. troops put down a riot of several thousand Koreans in Kobe (circled), first emergency of Allied occupation of Japan. Thousands of Koreans attacked prefectural offices in Kobe and the neighboring port city of Osaka in protest of Japanese school laws.

An anniversary dance is being planned by the young people for Friday night. Music for dancing will be by a campus band from Ohio Wesleyan university in Delaware.

Rated as one of the best teenage clubs in the state of Ohio, the club was started four years ago by the Y's Men's club. The idea was brought to Marion and introduced to the club as a project by Mr. and Mrs. William Luse. They served as host and hostess at the club during the first year.

residence being erected by John Gillis. A hydrant was ordered installed at the terminus of the present six inch main in Forest street from which the temporary 2 inch main will extend.

Other legislation enacted included authorization to the city solicitor to pay claim of $15.56 to Dr. Carrol Ritchey whose automobile was struck by a city truck April 7 and authorization to the city solicitor to defend the city in the three way damage suit filed by Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Jordan and Robert Maag.

At the request of the Ohio Fuel Gas Co, council passed a resolution requesting the federal power commission that the Panhandle and Eastern Gas company be required to deliver more gas to Ohio so that the Ohio Fuel Gas company may have sufficient storage of gas for domestic users in Marion during the winter months.

Approved after public hearing was an ordinance vacating a portion of the first alley west of Davids street and north from Hayes street. Petitioners were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Azaroff. No objections were voiced to the request which had the approval of the planning commission.

Renew Controversy

A remark by Councilman Harold Smith, First ward, drew the fire of E. O. Uncapher on a subject of considerable controversy between council and the safety-service department.

Smith asked why the police department servi-cycle had not been equipped with a siren as by request of council. Equipment of police department cars and motorcycles with sirens and identification of the vehicles by lettering had been requested on several previous occasions.

Mr. Uncapher, visibly disturbed, asked just where the line between legislative duties of council and administrative duties of the safety-service director lay. "Is it necessary for the safety-service director to jump through the hoop at the whim of a member of council seeking some particular bit of action?" he asked. "It would seem to me that disposition of some of these matters should be left to the discretion and judgment of the safety-service director," he said.

His remarks followed the report that the servi-cycle in question had been utilized on occasion for emergency calls such as fire runs and traffic duty. Ordinarily the cycle is used for checking parking.

GLAMOR, DRAMA AS LANA WEDS BOB

By The Associated Press

HOLLYWOOD, April 27—Well, it was quite a production. Lana Turner, the bride, was radiant, and nervous. Her white-orchid corsage trembled. She went upstairs and lay down to rest for a half hour after the ceremony.

She spoke her "I Wills" as just above a whisper. The movies' blond sweater girl, 27, was far less poised than in the 11 times she has been married in well-rehearsed movie scenes.

Her dark-haired, millionaire bridegroom, Henry J. (Bob) Topping, 34, heir to a tinplate fortune, said his vows with calm assurance.

The black-robed clergyman told them solemnly in the ceremony: "Henry and Lana, let us believe that in the province of God you have at least found each other." He adjured them to "plan together, play together, and—most important of all—pray together."

Like a well-prepared movie script, the marriage of the movie Cinderella girl and the millionaire had everything:

Glamor: Lana wore a sheer champagne lace gown over a champagne satin slip that did full justice to her celebrated figure. Her blue eyes sparkled, her cheeks were a tanned pink. The ceremonial room was fragrant and aglow with green fern and white blossoms—arranged by a studio prop man in cooperation with florists.

Drama: Lana was married in the white-plaster-walled living room of William R. (Billy) Wilkerson, movie trade-paper publisher, who discovered her for movies 11 years ago when she was sipping a milk shake. He served as best man.

Excitement: 25 reporters, 16 photographers and a newsreel man jamming the entryway to Wilkerson's two-story Bel-Air home as the ceremony started at 2:12 p. m.

Roving Reports

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK

THE dry ice business—the sale of diamonds for the glitter trade or industrial use—is getting more of an American accent. And Uncle Sam is buying heavily.

Before the war 75 per cent of the world's diamonds were marketed in the United States.

Now it's about 85 per cent," said Joseph Baumgold, secretary of the world's largest diamond cutting firm. "And business is up 35 per cent over last year."

Hal Boyle

The number one customer is the man who wants to plunk down $200 to $500 for a ring as a gift to his wife-to-be or an anniversary present for his wife.

That will get him a stone of from one-fifth to one-half a carat—depending on its quality—or a ring made of "melee"—diamond fragments smaller than one-fifth of a carat.

Diamonds are a mass rather than a class business. Only 15 per cent of it is on the luxury level—over $500 a stone.

Biggest buyer today after the prospective bridegroom is—Uncle Sam.

"The government is stockpiling diamonds again," said Baumgold. "They are a strategic mineral."

He wouldn't go into any detail. The two things diamond dealers dislike discussing most are the extent of government purchases and those by moneyed men who buy diamonds for women they aren't married to and don't intend to marry. Smart buyers tend to get diamonds for their wives at one store and those destined for other ladies at another shop. It cuts down embarrassing errors—the kind a man doesn't like to make.

TWO CUSTOMS the dealers are trying to encourage; the buying of "melee" diamonds for women's wedding rings and the practice some wives have developed of giving their husbands gold wedding bands containing one to three diamonds.

"They figure it's worth the money to them if he wears the ring that warns other women that their man's off the matrimonial market," said one dealer cheerfully.

War has changed the diamond market in several ways. Few people know or remember that the diamond is the hardest thing on earth—tougher than a banker's heart in a depression. Industry has found nothing to take its place to cut and grind metals.

"Before the war 95 per cent of the diamonds here went into the gem trade," said Baumgold. "Only 5 per cent were used industrially. Now it's about 25 per cent.

"Diamonds cut through aluminum and other light metals developed for war use like they were so much butter."

Most large gem stones—one-fourth karat or larger—have been cut here for years. The melee and industrial diamond-cutting trade centered in Antwerp and Amsterdam.

BUT WHEN the Germans invaded the "low countries" they ended the diamond trade there. American dealers had to set up schools to teach American cutters to deal with the small stuff.

"There were 500 diamond cutters in the United States in 1940," said Baumgold. "Today there are 3,500. The business hasn't gone back to Europe, although everyone predicted it would."

Diamond cutters are tightly unionized and make from $2.50 to $7.50 an hour for a 35-hour week. Top cutters on the large stones make up to $200 a week or more.

The only thing that can cut a diamond efficiently is another diamond. Diamond dust from the last diamond, rubbed with oil on a whirring, incredibly thin steel blade, is often used to cut the next diamond.

It is one business where they can't afford the old lumber industry slogan:

"Let the chips fall where they may."

BOWLING RESULTS

Marion Power Shovel league bowlers ended the season's play Tuesday with the Lathes' team controlling the top spit with a record of 60-39. H. Little was credited with the best single and best series scores for the year with a record of 689 pins in series competition and 275 in a single game. In final action on Palace maples until next season, R. Neal shot 237 for single high, and W. Osborne, 577 in series.

Classic league keglers will wind-up a week from Thursday. As they trip to Detroit for ABC tournament play April 28 and 29, no games will be played this Thursday. Spot Restaurant, leading the league with a record of 67-29 and holding a six game advantage, is assured of top ranking through the last night of competition. If they should bowl two nights, they could lose. High scores Thursday were rolled by Ray McFarland who was by far the best in series with scores of 208-222-193—623. Roy Snyder hit 608 on games of 242 (best single) 179-187—608. Ed. Stewart hit 235 for 604; Ervin Snell, 613; Lorny Morris, 616; Bill Barber, 603; L. Johnson, a big 241.

Huber league, with two weeks to go, is led by team No. 2 with 57-36. Men's high: L. Bunnell, 241 single, 574 series, women's: H. Zeigler, 177 and 499, in Thursday's bowling.

New York Stock Quotations

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 27—New selling swept the stock market today carrying prices fractions to a point lower.

It was quickly apparent plenty of traders still were ready to cash in on profits accumulated during the long advance. Even yesterday's sharp reaction wiped out only a little more than half of the average gains of the previous week.

Declines spread through nearly all sections of the list, and some initial gains were reduced or eliminated. Dealings hit a moderately active pace before slowing down.

Issues sagging at times included U. S. Steel, Texas Co., Superior Oil of California, Southern Pacific, Santa Fe, Allied Chemical, Dow Chemical, Penney, Montgomery Ward, Woolworth, Firestone Tire, Kennecott, U. S. Gypsum, International Paper, Glenn Martin, United Aircraft and National Distillers. Standard Oil (N.J.) dipped despite its report showing record 1947 earnings. Reaching higher levels were Caterpillar Tractor, Deere, American Smelting and American Woolen.

Marion Cubs Will Open 1948 Season Against Muncie Here Tonigh

Dowler To Start, but Pitching Choice Thereafter Undecided

By BILL DIEM

After Mayor Harry Dowler tosses in the first ball to open the Marion Cubs' 1948 baseball campaign under the lights at Lincoln park tonight, either lefty Si Pavkov or the veteran right-hander Frank DeLuca will take over the mound chores as the local ball club attempts to beat their Ohio-Indiana league opponent, the Muncie Reds.

Cub Manager Lewis (Zeke) Bekeza has not as yet made up his mind which of the two will get the nod for the opening day assignment, and two other positions on the Cub team are undecided, as well as the batting order.

The game will begin at 8 p. m., but from then on, the Cubs' home games will start 15 minutes earlier at 7:45.

Pavkov, who started the Cubs' first exhibition game against the Newark Yankees last Wednesday night, is a 19-year-old Akron boy who has never before played in professional baseball but has had plenty of experience in high school and semi-pro ball. He was sought upon graduation from Akron East High school last June by the Phillies, the Giants, and the Indians, as well as the Cubs, but Cub Scout Tony Lucadello wore down his resistance and he joined the Chicago organization.

Was Here Before

DeLuca, a dark-complectioned control pitcher from Toronto, Ont., was with the Marion baseball club in 1945, then in the St. Louis Cardinal farm chain. He advanced to the Toronto club of the Triple-A International league last spring, but his baseball career suffered a set-back when he broke a leg with a farm team of Toronto's. He also gives his age as 19 and gave a fine performance in the exhibition opener.

The catcher will be scrappy little Tom Gatts, who came to the Marion Cubs without a contract, but was signed up after it was seen what he had. Tom hails from Miamisburg, O., and was given a letter of introduction to Marion Cubs President W. Dexter Hazen by a former Marion man, James H. Colbert, who was killed while working on an electric power line early this year. Colbert had planned to accompany Gatts to Marion in person.

At first base will be Manager Bekeza, who plans to play that position until another infielder can be trained or brought into the club.

George Hanson, another 19-year-old hustler will hold down second base in the baseball opener tonight. He is from East Gary, Ind.

Two Thirdbaseman

Bekeza is undecided about his third base choice between Lou Castrovince of Bellevue, O., and Tom Neeley of South Lebanon, O. Both have looked equally good on the hot corner in practice and exhibition games.

The shortstop assignment goes to Vito Tutero, who was here for a month at the start of the season last year. Vito, 21, of Saginaw, Mich., has been alternating with Pete Schnepf of Decatur, Ind., at the shortstop spot.

Bekeza will pick the three outfielders from four men, Gerald Peters, Bill Bolduc, Bill Bohlander, and Charles Borden.

If he starts, Peters, a fleet little lefthander from Chesterton, Ind., will probably be the leadoff batter. He stands so low to the plate that he gets a lot of walks. At Newark Sunday he drew three in a row and scored each time he got on.

Bolduc, who has been batting in the cleanup spot in exhibition games, hails from Cambridge, Mass., and has a year of professional baseball under his belt, having played in 1946 with Fayetteville, N. C. He was out of baseball last year.

Bohlander was here at the end of the season last year and appeared in a few games as a pinch hitter. He's from Phillipsburg, O.

Borden was one of the two men who joined the local club last week when they were released from Fayetteville. Chuck comes from Fahlmouth, Mass.

In the batting order follows that of exhibition games, Peters will lead off, and then Neeley, Bekeza, Bolduc, Bohlander (or Borden), Hanson, Tutero, Gatts, and the pitcher will follow.

Six Cub players were cut off the squad yesterday in order to bring the size down to the opening day limit of 20. Those released were pitchers Lou Ferraro and Fred Stortz, catcher Robert Brauer, and outfielders Bill Crago and Bob Allen.

Umpires assigned by league President Frank Colley to work the opener here tonight are Frank Shabeck, Clayton Heinlen, and William Hickle.

By The Associated Press

Batting—Ed Robinson, Indians—Hit two home runs, the second coming in the 14th inning to give the Indians a 12-11 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

One of These Pitchers Will Start Tonight

Don Johnson Hurls No-Hitter But Harding Loses To Mansfield, 2 to 1

Don Johnson, pitcher on Harding High school's baseball team lost a freakish one yesterday to the Mansfield Tygers, pitching no-hit ball over the seven-inning course and losing by a score of 2-1. He issued eight walks and hit one man, credited eight strikeouts and stranded seven Mansfield runners. Gregorio set 15 of the Harding diamondmen down, issued one walk and gave up four hits.

Mathias, Harding leftfielder, singled to get on and came home on a double by Jim Rea in the fifth to account for the Prexies' only run while the Tygers scored two unearned runs in the bottom half of the sixth on an error, three walks, with Groves stealing home and Watts coming in on a passed ball to overcome the Presidents' one-run advantage.

Jim Hill suffered the only casualty of the game, getting a four-inch spike wound in the sixth when a Tyger player slid into the third base sack. (He is in school today.) Jim Rea compiled the best record at bat for the Presidents as he rapped out a single and a double in three trips to the plate.

Homer-Hitting Saves Indians

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, April 27—The Cleveland Indians, still looking for a third topflight starting pitcher, had cause for a celebration today in the homer-hitting rampage which has carried them through five straight victories.

Eddie Robinson capped a four-hour slugging bee with the Chicago White Sox yesterday by blasting his second circuit clout in the fourteenth frame to give the rallying Redskins a 12-11 triumph, which retained their standing as the major loops' only undefeated club.

Ken Keltner leading both leagues in the home run department, also contributed his fifth round tripper and Larry Doby cracked his second as the Tribe took the top spot in the slugging bracket with 12 homers in five games.

Eddie Robinson Homers Twice

The usual riddle of who would pitch for the Indians after Bob Feller and Bob Lemon, remained unanswered, however, as Rapid Robert was forced to stroll from the bullpen to save the game in the dramatic 14th inning. He was the last of seven Tribe hurlers.

Taking the mound with Chicago's tying and winning runs on base and nobody out Feller struck out two Chisox with jug-handle curves and forced the third to fly out and end the marathon.

Russ Christopher, making his second superlative relief performance in as many days, was credited with the victory when he hurled five scoreless innings before tiring in the 14th.

Manager Lou Boudreau muscled into the slugging spotlight with five hits in six trips, including two triples and two doubles, driving in four runs and scoring two. Boudreau slammed in the two tying runs in the ninth with a long double after Dale Mitchell singled and Thurman Tucker walked.

THOUGH one three-inning stint each in exhibition games isn't much to go on, the Marion Cubs mound corps shapes up as the strong point of the team today on the day of the opener with the Muncie Reds. One pitcher, Ray (Bill) Burgemeister, pitched three innings of no-hit ball against Lima, and two hurlers, Frank DeLuca and Ramon Peet, twirled three innings of one-hit ball. Of the other better Cub pitchers who have shown their wares, Nick Alivojvodick allowed three hits but no runs in four innings, Si Pavkov five hits and two runs in three, Lou Ferraro four hits and one run in three, John Graney four hits and one run in three. Only two moundsmen tried so far have been reached for more than two runs. Leland (Nutsy) Goss allowed 13 hits good for 10 runs in three innings against Lima, and Tom (Gorilla) Jones gave up three hits and four runs in two innings against Newark. Two pitchers — Fred Wensing and Fred Stortz — haven't yet shown their wares in a game.

BUT IT IS in the control department that the Cub staff has shown up the other two teams the most. In 26 innings, the Cub pitchers have allowed but nine bases on balls, while the Cubs have collected 34 in 27 innings. Cub pitchers have struck out 28 while opponent pitchers fanned but 16.

THE CUBS HAVE trailed their opponents in hitting and fielding in the three exhibitions, but there is every reason to expect that the youngsters will improve considerably once the season begins. With errorless play and a little power behind the pitching staff, the Cubs could become the team to beat in the Ohio-Indiana league.

Citation Favorite In Derby Trial Today

By The Associated Press

LOUISVILLE, April 27—Preliminary symptoms of the annual "Kentucky Derby fever" broke out today as Calumet Farm prepared to parade Citation before the home folks for the first time in his young turf career.

The winter book favorite for Saturday's $100,000 mile and a quarter classic and his sensational stable mate, Coaltown, were cautiously entered with three other colts for this afternoon's Derby Trial at Churchill Downs. Post time for the one mile affair from the chute is 5:20 p. m.

However, it was generally conceded that Coaltown, in razor sharp trim, would be scratched. Coaltown captured the Blue Grass Stakes at Keeneland, Ky., only last Thursday, and is all set for Saturday.

This would leave it up to William L. Brann's Escadru, Howard Wells' Eagle Look, C. A. O'Neil Jr.'s Galedo, and Citation.

Strong Giants Appear To Ha Found Missing Link — Pitchi

By The Associated Press

It may be only a flash in the pan, but the New York G appear to have finally found that missing link—strong pitch which added to their terrific batting power can make them most feared outfit in baseball.

Combining the two yesterday, the Giants whipped the P delphia Phils, 5-1, for their fifth straight. They now enjoy a and a half first place lead in the National league pennant race.

The surprising part of the Giants' surge, naturally, has been their airtight pitching. And to make it all the more confusing, it has come from the most unexpected sources.

Take yesterday's masterful hurling by southpaw Dave Koslo. Manager Mel Ott had no assurance that Koslo would go the route, let alone pitch a seven-hitter and a near shutout.

Sunday the Giants got two splendidly pitched games out of old Bobo Newsom and rookie Sheldon Jones. Ace Larry Jansen showed well in his first outing and Ray Poat has a five-hitter to his credit. All of which has combined to put the Giants into the lead.

Not to be outdone by Koslo yesterday, the Giants' power hitters slammed starter Schoolboy Rowe and his two successors for eight hits, five of which went for extra bases. Sid Gordon cracked a home run, the club's 10th in eight games.

Eddie Stanky, in his first crack against his former Dodger teammates, slammed a triple and single and drew a walk in four times at bat to lead the Braves to a 5-0 victory over the Dodgers in Boston. He also handled eight chances in the field in flawless fashion.

The Cleveland Indians outlasted the Chicago White Sox, 12-11, in a 14-inning affair lasting four hours and 20 minutes.

Fred Sanford outpitched Dizzy Trout to give the Browns a 2-1 victory over the Deetroit Tigers in St. Louis.

In the only other scheduled contest, the Boston Red Sox the first night game of the se defeating the Senators, 6- Washington.

Lefty Mel Parnell limite Senators to five hits while B collected 10, including three gles and a double by Ted liams, defending batting cha who had a perfect night.

Buddy Patchen Won't Run I Pacing Clas

Buddy Patchen, the five- old pacer Dr. J. G. McNa hoped to start in the climax of the current session at Anita—next Saturday's $5 Golden West Pace—will not McNamara informed The Sta letter today.

The reason, writes the d "the racing stewards and trac ficials here use every preca for the safety of drivers horses that nothing might fere with the finish, and know that Bing Crosby is the only owner of horses you can't tell which way went."

Were he to run in the Buddy Patchen, who cost Namara $500, would be up a pacers costing $20,000 to $4

Dr. McNamara, who has at the California racing se with his wife, picks an e practitioner, Dr. Stanton, to Saturday's pacing classic. Stanton, owned by Donal Wilson of Detroit, is not a bet at that. He won his 35th in 43 starts last Saturday, ca ing one section of the San free-for-all pace at a mile one-eighth in 2:17.2.

Though the McNamaras enjoyed the scenery en rou and in California, especially view of the mountains bac the Santa Anita track, weather has been a disapp ment.

Writes McNamara, "Half time you can't tell until 10 whether you need an overco a raincoat. A few mornings I was talking to one of the m ants of Arcadia when the we would make you think of drizzle at home. I asked hi this was one of those Calif orange dews and he said it an Oregon mist—missed O and hit California."

AA'S WESTERN CLUBS OPEN PLAY TONIGHT

By International News Service

The American Association's western clubs get their shot tonight at the league's Thomas J. Hickey trophy, awarded on the basis of opening game attendance. Minneapolis, St. Paul, Milwaukee and Kansas City will be playing at a mark of 14,885 established at Columbus when the eastern clubs had their openers April 17.

All told, the four eastern teams played to 49,385.

Whatever attendance figures the association clubs hit tonight, they will hope to approach Columbus' on the standpoint of improvement. The Red Birds drew only some 1,800 fans to their inaugural in 1947.

Tonight's schedule sends Toledo to Milwaukee, Indianapolis to Kansas City, Columbus to St Paul and Louisville to Minneapolis.

Indianapolis made the western invasion with a firm two-game grip on the league lead. A five-game winning streak, snapped in the first contest of Sunday's double header, carried the Tribe to a before The Saints have won nine and lost three.

St. Paul, the early pacesetter, and Minneapolis are tied for second with seven-and-five records. All Association teams were idle last night.

Reds, Cubs Use Lanky Hurlers

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, April 27—Two lanky up in the air hurlers went to the mound today as the Chicago Cubs stopped here for a two-game series with the Reds.

Lanky Ewell Blackwell, the Cincinnati Reds' hurler who stands six-feet six inches into the air, and the Cubs' rookie Bob Rush, a six-foot four-incher himself, were the chosen two.

Blackwell has started twice this season and given the Reds two of their four victories. Rush has gone to the mound once this year, and was charged for a loss.

There was a later indication that Manager Charley Grimm of the Cubs might change his mind about Rush, however, and start Hank Borowy, who won 8 and lost 12 for the Cubs last season.

Grimm brought a shuffled lineup to Cincinnati Andy Pafko, who was a strong armed center fielder, is holding the third base position. Henry Schenz is working the keystone bag in place of the aging Don Johnson, and Roy Smalley, who punched out a 244 with his bat for Des Moines last season, is covering the ground at shortstop.

Hal Jeffcoat, another youngster, is playing centerfield and Cliff Liberson, also a freshman, alternating with Phil Cavarretta in left field here is a baby in the house, but here are seldom enough pieces to justify the use of the big family washer. That means that mother has a lot of handwashing to do unless she does the modern thing and buys a miniature washer.

Dedicated to the Welfare of Little Children and Published As a Guide for Their Parents

There are a number of these on the market, intended for just this purpose. They hold the equivalent of one large sized sheet, which means that they comfortably hold a baby's daily quota of clothes in one load.

Besides relieving the busy young mother of a great deal of standing over a tub these little baby washers make for economy. They require much less hot water than the family size washer, and get clothes clean much faster than it can be done by hand.

They come in handy too, for washing out mother's lingerie, and small household articles such as doilies, table napkins, and daddy's little socks.

Article that mothers of children who have outgrown diapers, are passing on to mothers of newborn with special emphasis this year is to learn about baby pads as a help toward saving time and energy.

One or two of the pads keeps diapers from soiling or staining and the pads are easily flushed away. Made of the same materials under hygienic conditions they are said to eliminate irritation, and in addition they are inexpensive enough so that in most cases they may be used regularly.

A SAFETY CAUTION

All bottles of medicine or antiseptics should be kept on high shelves out of baby's reach. It is a good idea to stick tiny straight pins in the stoppers of all bottles containing poison of any kind to assure safety in the medicine chest and home.

Yes, Babies cause extra work . . .
but you can reduce it by using the

Advocates Year Round Program

May first has always been for children, since the well-remembered days when excited youngsters hung mysterious May Day baskets on the door.

Now this is more than a day for your child or the kids next door. It is a symbol of a great nation's concern for the generations to come, an appointed season when the entire country is asked to awaken—"to the fundamental necessity of a year-round program for the protection and development of the health of the nation's children."

The quoted words conclude the joint Congressional resolution, passed in 1928, designating May 1 as Child Health Day. Each year in April, a Presidential proclamation focuses public attention on the date.

First national celebration of Child Health Day actually preceded Congressional action by four years, in 1921. The now-defunct American Child Health Association is credited with leading the vigorous campaign for recognition of this day for children.

Supported by Hoover

The Association won the sympathetic support of Herbert Hoover, then Secretary of Commerce. Writing President Calvin Coolidge on Feb 18, 1924, Mr. Hoover described May 1 as "a day for constructive, concentrated thought and demonstration on behalf of community action for the American child."

After Congressional action in 1928, leadership in May 1 activities was taken over by the Association of State and Provincial Health Officers. It was 1933 when the U. S. Children's Bureau was asked to carry on the main burden of the work, but with no specific budget to finance Child Health Day programs. Each year the Bureau has chosen some significant phase of child welfare as a May 1 theme.

Year Round Program

This year, with more babies and toddlers in the nation than ever before, the Bureau is interpreting the 24th anniversary of the observance in terms of year-round national child health. As part of its 1948 program, the Bureau will ask parents, doctors, nurses and other health workers to use May 1 to develop practical plans that will assure thorough medical and dental examinations and treatment for every child entering school for the first time next fall.

Ambitious goal is to remove all correctible defects found in the health of these children, or have them under treatment by the close of the next school year.

Impetus to this year's national effort will be given at the May 1 to 4 meetings of the National Health Assembly, which is convening in Washington by invitation of the Federal Security Administrator Oscar R. Ewing. Plans are "to launch a vigorous national

Mom Is Charm Teacher

TIP-TOP GROOMING . . . For dolly, Mom and Me.

By BETTY CLARKE
Associated Press Newsfeature Beauty Editor

If today's little girls don't grow up to be lovely, fastidious young ladies, you can't blame their Moms. Modern mothers are becoming more conscious than ever that they must set habit patterns for daughter while she is still a baby. Growing girls who do not respond to mother's persuasive glamor treatment may miss the charm boat.

Mother can keep convincing daughter that loveliness pays off if she sets a lively example that beauty is as beauty does. A little tyke mustn't think that mother's true charm is entirely the result of cosmetics. Mother should make up in private and not disillusion her child. She should, however, invite her moppet to the wash basin when she scrubs her face and nails, gives herself a manicure or pedicure.

Especially when she is brushing her hair which is one of the charm tricks little girls can develop early, mother should encourage daughter to perform the ritual with her. There are available in "dolly and me" sets, small hairbrushes for both daughter and her dolly—and a hairbrushing session with dolly, whose hair may show improvement, will convince your little moppet.

Teach her to wield the toothbrush, give her colorful wash clothes and interesting animal soaps.

WHAT'S A GIRAFFE? Junior is intrigued by the new zoo toy of plastic-coated fabric. It's washable, sanitary and right for the play-pen age.

By The Associated Press

Millions of doting relatives each year are puzzled as to what kind of toy to give a new-born baby.

Babies are never too young for toys, says the Toy Guidance Council, but because of their rapid development they need to have their toys replaced frequently. First toys, however, are highly important in aiding a baby's growth and general development.

Motor control of head and neck muscles, then shoulders, arms, legs and hands come in the first few months, so that in the beginning the baby can enjoy only bright-colored toys dangling before his eyes. By the time he is three or four months old he is able to sit up and grasp things, and the have bells or rattles inside, so the baby can listen as well as look and grasp. In selecting toys, be sure that any bells on the outside are well anchored, so that they cannot be pulled off and swallowed. The same precaution should be taken regarding any appendages, such as ears or eyes on animal toys, or any small parts that might be pulled loose.

Toys for the young baby also should be washable—the plastic or rubber varieties are best. Fuzzy animals should come later. Wooden toys also may be included if edges and corners are rounded and any colors used are smooth, non-toxic paints.

Following are general classifications of infant toys, by age groups:

Up to two months: rattles or bells hung on crib or carriage.

Two to four months: rattles that can be grasped, large colored beads on an unbreakable string, rings with attached rattles; gym attachments for the crib, that the

Modern Ideas and Conveniences Make 1948 Babies Lucky Indeed

Don't talk to 1948 babies about the joys of the dear departed past. The good days are here, and just a little research will prove why the nation's babies and toddlers are in luck.

First on the happy list is the new look at parental cuddling and affection. The stern "let him cry it out" regime now is frowned on by child psychologists, many of whom feel that the sense of instability and insecurity of teen agers and adults can be traced to lack of the comfort given by a warmly loved infancy.

Babies need loving just as much as they need sunshine and cod liver oil. "Enjoy your baby today" is happy advice for mother and child.

New Day for Schedules, Too

Then there's the "self-demand" feeding system, now winning wide acceptance among doctors and parents who have tried it successfully. Repeated tests show that baby soon sets up his own schedule, holding to it with surprising regularity, and telling the world when he's hungry.

All for Better Babies

Babies who come into the world too soon are being safeguarded as never before, and the U. S. Children's Bureau is campaigning valiantly for added funds to expand the program for premature babies.

New thinking and planning for babies extends all the way from official Washington to serious teen agers who study child care in training courses that help them to be better baby sitters at home and elsewhere. Toddy's better trained baby sitters will be the mothers of tomorrow.

Some of these "new today" items are planned to ease space limitations in homes where two is a crowd and three a real problem. To name a few:

Miniature Baby Bath: Two good ones on the market that are ideal for cramped space or traveling.

Folding Play Pens: Glide merrily on casters; just as handy on long trips as from room to room.

Crib Drawers: Easily attached to baby's crib and obligingly slide under it; storage space for baby's clothes.

Three Shelf Bath Stand: For use with baby bathinette; good height on rollers, folding compactly when not in use; night lamp and bottle warmer attachments, plenty of room for clean towels, diapers, bath equipment.

Contour Crib Sheets: Fitted to tuck around the mattress; snugger for baby than a flat sheet.

Kiddie Chair: Vacuum grip rubber feet hold this chair securely when placed on an ordinary kitchen or dining room chair.

Junior Folding Seat: Miniature seat of yellow masonite in a drawstring cotton bag solves "hesitation" problems when small folks travel.

Miniature Electric Chef: Water boils in this baby stove to warm a bottle, boil an egg or potato or heat prepared foods. Shuts off automatically when water is evaporated.

For Bottle Time: Lightweight plastic base holds bottle at angle which allows infant to get milk easily.

A Snap of the Diaper

Of course the list could continue with dry facts like pinless diapers that snap on and are

(Turn to MODERN IDEAS, P. 13)

MODERN IDEAS

adjustable. Welcome the return of albatross for baby's coats and wrappers. A little more matched nursery furniture than formerly (still not enough, say mothers.) And Philippine handmade dresses and baby gifts are here in greater quantity and better quality than during the war.

Oh yes, now you can be taller than your baby carriage. New carriages boast adjustable handles for the tall or short parent. They come—the carriages, that is—with wheel bearings of Nylon plastic, described as more wear-resistant than steel and just as smooth.

Speaking of carriages and timely talk, some super markets successfully provide parking space or small supervised playgrounds for carriages and babies while mothers go a-shopping.

TIE TOYS TO CRIB

Here's tip that may save you lots of bending. Tie baby's toys to his crib bars with tapes.

Night Lamps For Nursery Advised

Night lamps for the nursery should be designed along modern lighting practices. A small bulb in a socket plugged into a baseboard or built-in outlet will do.

The light, of course, should be diffused, so that no rays strike the sleeping child; enough light should be thrown on the floor so that mother, when she comes in, will not trip over toys or other objects left on the floor.

If a night lamp is placed on a table or drawer, it should be so located that it can be found easily in the dark. This lamp must be completely shaded, particularly on top to prevent the light from reflecting from the ceiling into the crib and baby's eyes.

A MILLION DOLLAR SMILE and No Wonder

For his parents deal at the Ohio Market where they get only the highest quality meats, which are safer to serve children and adults.

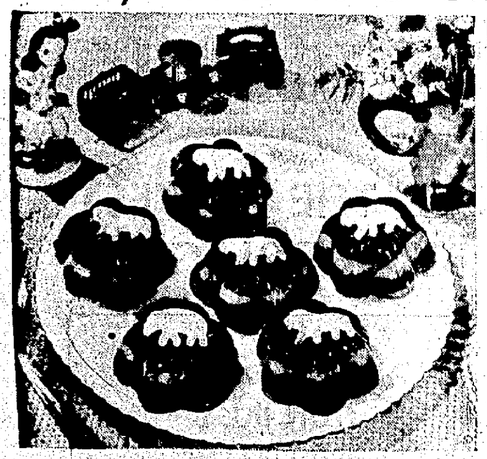
Baby Goes To a Circus Party



CIRCUS FRUIT DESSERT . . . with baby's strained foods.

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Young mothers are always wondering what to serve as the piece de resistance at a youngster's first party. Since it's springtime and circustime and babytime (National Baby Week precedes Child Health Day on May 1st this year) a special circus dessert is a good choice.

It's easy to turn Junior's dependable everyday strained or chopped fruits into this special occasion treat—just make combination fruit molds like those shown in the photograph—and the party-goers will cheer. Prepare the desserts the day before so you'll have less to do on the day of the party and you'll also give them plenty of time to set. Here's the recipe:

Circus Fruit Desserts

One envelope plain unflavored gelatin, ¼ cup water, 1 cup hot water, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 2 tablespoons sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ cup (one 4½ ounce container) strained prunes, ½ cup (one 4½ ounce container) chopped peaches, animal crackers.

Soften gelatin in cold water; dissolve in hot water. Add lemon juice, sugar and salt. Cool until partly thickened. Divide into two bowls. Fold prunes into one, dish and peaches into the other. Rinse individual molds in cold water and fill with alternate layers of two fruit mixtures. Chill until firm. After desserts are unmolded on serving dish press an animal cracker on top of each. Makes five ½ cup molds.

Variations

Substitute any of the junior fruits, such as apricot-apple choped apples or pear and pineapple. For younger guests, strained fruits may be used.

Turn fruit gelatin into a ring mold, center with custard pudding which may be slightly thinned with top milk, if desired.

Adjust sugar measure in gelatin to blend or tart fruits used. Make a slightly tart mixture, alternating strained prunes and apricots with farina, unmold on greens and serve as salad. Serve with a Cream Cheese Dressing made by blending 1 package cream cheese with 1 (4½ ounce) container strained fruit, such as apricots with farina.

For a speed-up dessert or salad, base may be a flavored packaged gelatin.

Another salad tip: Chill in ring mold, turn out, center with cottage cheese.

For a Circus Punch for a party for two-to-sixers use the following recipe:

Circus Punch

One-fourth cup sugar, 1 cup water, ¼ cup strained lemon juice, 1 cup strained orange juice, 1 cup grape juice.

Add sugar to water and stir over low heat until completely dissolved. Add the fruit juices. Chill before serving. Six ½ cup servings.

Since Baby Week stresses the importance of checking up on a child's health, this is a good time to survey his daily food needs. Here is a reminder from a booklet compiled by the United States Children's Bureau, called "The Road to Good Nutrition." If the child is more than one year old he needs the following foods daily:

Milk—At least 1½ pints daily (a quart is best).

Citrus fruit or tomatoes—At least one generous serving daily of orange, grapefruit, or raw or canned tomatoes (or—for the older child)—a larger amount of raw cabbage, salad greens, cantaloupe or strawberries).

Green and yellow vegetables—A green or yellow vegetable every day.

Potatoes—One or more potatoes

SAFE enough for Baby

AMERICAN babies are probably the most carefully reared children in the world today. Talk to any young mother and you'll find her a walking encyclopedia of information on infant diet, training, health, and clothing. Her motto, naturally, is "nothing but the best for my baby".

THAT'S WHY a mother depends on her city water supply. She knows it's pure—safe enough even for her precious baby.

Hospital Method Of Bathing Baby Aids New Mothers

Bathing the baby is no perilous business, even for a brand-new mother if she follows the methods that are used in the hospital where baby was born.

First she assembles all the necessities for the bath, from his tray of oil, boiled water, cotton swabs, etc., to the thermometer with which she tests the bath water.

No old-fashioned guess work with an elbow for the Modern Mother!

She makes sure that the good habit of the daily bath will be a pleasant experience from infancy right up through the years, by having all the circumstances of the bath attractive and soothing.

Thermometers for the baby's bath are dainty little gadgets that cost very little, but that make certain that the baby will never be scalded nor be cold in his tub.

The young child cannot tolerate temperature extremes, and the bath water for the infant should be kept between 80 and 100 degrees.

TOYS

courage crawling, such as balls that roll away; small wheel toys that can be pushed around the floor of the play-pen; smooth-surface blocks with rounded corners; toys that make a noise.

Fourteen months up: push and pull toys, to aid in balance and encourage walking and running fuzzy animals that can be cuddled; nested blocks and building blocks, to encourage dexterity; come-apart toys, to develop hand-and-eye coordination.

Babies of course will continue to play with earlier toys at all these stages, say authorities, but they need frequent changes in toys, to challenge newly developed abilities.

Gift of Jewelry To Be Treasured As an Heirloom

Here today . . . heirlooms tomorrow . . . that's the story of baby jewelry. For the tiny precious gifts you give, grow more valuable through the years.

In the past baby's gifts were stowed away when he grew too old to use them, but today there's a place in the modern home for every single item.

Take his little baby cup, for example . . . it becomes a smart cigaret holder. Then there's his sterling bowl with its handle . . . that makes a lovely candy dish. His knife, fork and spoon decorate the curio cabinet, his napkin ring rests there, too.

And if "he" were a "she," dainty lockets and rings would become exquisite charms on a young lady's bracelet.

Don't feel that you are giving something to be outgrown and forgotten . . . when you give baby jewelry . . . you are really giving something to bring lasting pleasure for years to come.

STRAINED FOODS GOOD

Better nutrition and better food and bowel habits can be promoted in the second and third months of infancy if baby is given a full diet of strained foods. This is due to the fact that strained foods contain adequate amounts of vitamin A, B, C and D; sufficient iron; enough bulk for the stool; and that they accustom the baby to solid diet earlier in life.

Devote more hours to Junior and Sis during their formative years.
